WANDERERS CAUSED BY 'FIRE' COPY

Guests of the Adair on Peachtree Hurry From Rooms
in Night Attire.

Guests of the Adair hotel, No. 205
Peachtree street, fled down fire escapes and through smoke-filled passages in their nightgowns early Wednesday morning when fire was discovered in the first floor of the four-story structure.

Many persons on the upper floors were awakened by the screams of fright and rushing of feet below, and without attempting to clothe themselves
they hurriedly rushed to the fire escape.

The fire did small damage and was extinguished before the fire department arrived. It originated in the bedroom of the room of Walter Wilson, a real estate operator. Matches in one of Wilson's coats there are said to have been ignited by heat from a stove against which the coats were hung. In an instant the clothing was on fire and smoke filled the room.

Woman Sprays Alarm.
Mrs. Wilson, returning from breakfast, opened the door to the room and was enveloped in a cloud of smoke.
She screamed fire and ran back into the building shouting to the other guests.

She followed as the smoke poured into the Wilson bedroom, stirred the next floor. Many of the guests caught up by Mrs. Wilson's screams of fire and sent out of the building.

The fire started from a grate on the second floor and burned through the ceiling. It was extinguished within a few minutes.

Judge Ellis in the Superior Court.

COOLEY GOES TO COURT FOR TRIAL

Negro to Plead Guilty to Misdemeanor Indictment Charging Aid to Frank in Slaying.

Jim Cooley, the State's star witness against Leo M. Frank and an admitted accessory after the fact in the murder of Mary Phagan, was taken from the Tower Wednesday morning to await the calling of the case in the court of Judge Ben H. Hill.

Two indictments were found against Cooley by the Fulton County Grand Jury. Both charged him with being accessory after the fact, but one of the indictments involved only a misdemeanor while the other constituted a felony.

Cooley was arrested as to whether the negro would be found guilty on both counts. William M.
Shoemaker, Cooley's attorney, indicated before the trial that Cooley would plead guilty only on the misdemeanor charge.

A line point of law is involved in the two indictments. Cooley, as his own confessions, was guilty of the misdemeanor by having knowledge of the crime from the officers until he made his admission to the law detectives some three weeks after the Phagan girl was slain.

The felony indictment presupposes that Cooley did "hide, harbor or conceal" the perpetrator of the crime from the officers of the law. This question arises as to whether Cooley, by shielding Frank, as he says he did, was guilty of the felony in the instance of the law.

In the event that Cooley is convicted on one or both of the charges he will be given a new trial and acquitted, the anonymous situation will still be an accessory after the fact without a principal in the crime.

HEALTH SYSTEM CRITICS SCORED BY WOODWARD

Major Woodward gave philosophical Wednesday in commenting upon the Russell Sage Foundation report criticizing the conduct of Atlanta's Health Department.

"If these outsiders who are so pat-ternally scornful of our city government and constantly offering advice on how things should be run, are really so earnest they should run the city and come over here and help do the things they are so proud of."

"If we adopted all the recommendations for improvements in the various departments the city would be bankrupt within a year. The income of the city determines what we can do for the betterment of the various departments. I wish some of the gentlemen who appear so much interested would come over here and help share the responsibility to the people for the division of this income."

An official in Atlanta is somewhat in the attitude of a man I once heard of who started to build a house.
Every one who came along gave him advice as to improvements, and he accepted every suggestion. When he got through the house was such a mess that he had to build a new one.

"The revolution which turned the country from the hands of the Manchu Government to the young Chinese Republicans was a great uplift for the ress, so long impeded by superstition with great rapidity."

Second Day of Women's Convention at Taber- nacle Brings Out Large Attendance.

"The women around and Shanghai have been torn down, the city is rapidly becoming modern and everything is being done to the advantage of civilization," declared Miss Shalle Pratt, principal of the Eliza Yates Memorial School of Shanghai, China, speaking before the second day of the Woman's Baptist Missionary Union, which convened Tuesday at the Baptist Tabernacle.

Miss Pratt returned to America in July after spending seven years in Shanghai in China. She returns to the city in the fall of 1914.

All China now is anxious to "open" the doors of the country to the world. She said that children from 10 years of age to young folks all want to learn English. Parents refuse to send their children to schools where English is not taught.

"Ten years ago the Eliza Yates School was opened," continued Miss Pratt. "Fifteen pupils entered and all of them were paid to attend the school. Now we have 50 pupils, and of this number all but four who are very poor, pay tuition."

"The parents of the coming generation were the hardest to deal with,
for at first they could not see the value of educating the children except in the way they themselves were educated. The call of the higher education finally reached them and they answered by sending the children to the missionary schools. Nothing can be done in China without the permission of the old folks for missionaries in America, the call of the old people goes a long way."

FIVE POINTS ROLED NO SPOT FOR BOU

Broyles Lauds Belligerents for Settling Differences With Fists.
Tapers Praise With Fines.

Lecturing the combatants for choosing so public a place as Five Points in which to settle their differences, Recorder
Broyles Wednesday night Police Commissioner A. R. King and his brother-in-law and trusty foe
E. W. Greenway $1075 apiece.

Recorder Broyles, in a philosophical on the manner in which gentlemen should settle disputes, complained the commissioner and Greenway for having used their fists only
"You men have set a good example for the rest of the community in using your hands only instead of encouraging the widely grown custom of gun toting."

But the praise was tempered with stern admonition.

The Recorder wondered at the lack of discretion on the part of all three men in choosing Five Points for the background.

"Now if you gentlemen," he said with a twinkle in his eye, "had gone into somebody's back yard or into some secluded shack of the woods the offense would not have been nearly so bad. In fact, the very isolation of the affair would have robbed it of its harmful qualities."

Then the Recorder announced his fine and all three men accepted the penalties gracefully.

Greenway and Commissioner King repeated the stories they had already told about the affair starting over the telephone dispute in which the municipal tie was passed and the appointment for the fight made.

NEGRO NOT TO PLEAD TOGETHER CHARGE

"There's no law in law that would apply against him," Says Attorney.

"There is no law to convict Jim Conley, and he will go free."

This statement was made by W. M. Smith, attorney for Conley, the Frank witness and confessed accessory after the fact to the murder of Mary Phagan.

Wednesday, as the negro sat in an ante-room to Judge Ben Hill's courtroom, awaiting trial on charges of misdemeanor and felony.

Contrary to expectations, Attorney Smith declared that Conley would plead not guilty to both charges. It had been thought that the negro would admit the misdemeanor count at least.

Attorney Smith refused to discuss the technicalities of the case against his client, but declared that there was no case against him. Referring to the negro's admission to complicity in the Phagan murder on the witness stand when he appeared as the witness against Leo M. Frank, Smith answered:

"Well, you search the lawbooks and see if you can find any ruling that would apply against Conley. I will get him out real free without trouble."

Two conditions were made by Attorney Smith for the Phagan Grand Jury. Both charged him with being accessory after the fact, but one of the indictments involved a misdemeanor while the other constituted a felony.

A fine point of law is involved in the two indictments. Conley, on his own confession, was guilty of the misdemeanor by hiding the knowledge of the crime from the officers of the law. The question arises as to whether Conley is guilty of a felony.

Conley said he was in the Phagan murder case. He was in the Phagan murder case. He was in the Phagan murder case.

MRS. SLATON GIVES HER RECIPE FOR GEORGIA DAY BEATEN BISCUIT

Mrs. John M. Slaton shown cooking as she will for Georgia Day dinner. The first lady of Georgia is as much at home in the kitchen as she is in the dining room, and greets both.

Governor's Lady Will Furnish Bread for Big Dinner—Tickets To Be Unique.

Here is the recipe for the biscuits that Mrs. John M. Slaton, first lady of Georgia, will make for the big Atlanta dinner that will be held on Georgia Day, Tuesday of next week at the Auditorium. The recipe which Mrs. Slaton herself has given to The Georgian, is for the time-old-fashioned beaten biscuit which has been a famous Georgia Maryland and Virginia delicacy from ante-bellum days. Mrs. Slaton had the recipe from her mother, Mrs. John A. Grant, and here it is:

Take one quart of flour and three level teaspoons of salt and about a half pint of water. Mix the flour and salt in a large bowl and add the water. Knead the dough in a large bowl, using your hands. Roll the dough into a long strip, then fold it in half and roll it out again. Repeat this process three times. Cut the dough into small squares and bake them in a hot oven for about 10 minutes.

The biscuits will be served with butter and molasses. They are a traditional part of the Georgia Day dinner.

Georgia's 'DRY' LAWS GO TO U. S. COURT

THE present term of the Supreme Court does not appear to be a particularly happy one for plaintiffs in liquor appeal cases, for out of a total of eleven cases decided and handed down today, only one was reversed and sent back for a new trial.

The docket list has several murder cases pending for decision, as it is usually heavy in that respect this term.

In the case of Hall vs. the State, the old rule against courts of review interfering with the trial judge in the matter of determining admissibility of evidence was affirmed. It was again specifically set forth that the trial judge's ruling on the admissibility of evidence is final, unless it is manifestly wrong.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Wilson has given up hope of obtaining money legislation at this session of Congress, and has admitted this to members of Congress.

At the same time it was also revealed that the President has recently displayed dissatisfaction with the information conveyed to him by his advisers, and has valued Senator Stanford and other Democratic Senators to acquaint him with the real situation in Congress.

DELIGHTS on GEORGIA COLLECS. BY JAMES B. NEVIN

No courts of review in the United States are more thoroughly and more continuously than the Supreme and Appeals Courts of Georgia.

The various restrictions thrown about these two courts are so rigid and unimpeachable that it has almost reached the point where the judges themselves must walk with the sword.

In Georgia, contrary to the practice in more than half the States, and no matter how small and inefficient, may be carried to the courts of review.

In addition to that, cases submitted to either for affirmation or reversal must be acted upon within twelve months, or they stand affirmed automatically.

This provision the courts have construed as mandatory upon them to dispose of all cases within twelve months, at the worst, and of an automatic affirmation of a court below as more or less of a reflection upon themselves.

For the reason stated, the members of the two Georgia courts are in a hurry to get their work done, and in the capital at all times.

Truly this is the coat for winter—real winter—when winds blow and are keen.

It's the kind to stay the blast and soften the cutting cold.

It's Chinichila, that's why, it's double-breasted, that's another reason. It has a big shawl collar and rosy patch pockets.

It's everything a winter overcoat should be, and it's a handsome thing to look at and possess.

RAILROADS WILL GIVE SHRINERS LOW RATES

Representatives of Thirty Lin

Meet Here Big Success.

More than thirty railroads have joined with Forrest Asair and Frederick J. Paxton, potentate of Yaon Temple and chairman of the financial committee, in the movement to make the 1914 convention of the Mysa Shriners, to be held in Atlanta next year, the greatest gathering of lodges men ever assembled in the United States.

Representatives of the road which will cooperate at a dinner

The railroad men assured Mr. Adams and Mr. Paxton that the rates to Atlanta from all parts of the United States will be as low as it is possible to make them.

Specials To Be Given Attention
Assurances were given also that ample arrangements would be made to handle the special trip without delay or inconvenience to the passengers, and arrangements would be made whereby the trip to Atlas may be made over a number of different routes.

Mr. Adair declared after the dinner that the outlook for a success-convention is better than ever before and expressed his gratification at the interest the railroads are taking in the matter.

There will be no tribute at the ceremony, and the Shriner will be here," Mr. A. said. "Our plans rapidly are taking definite shape and with the aid of co-operation of the railroads assured, nothing remains but to work out our ideas as to entertainment. The convention without doubt will be the largest gathering of men in the city."

POLITICAL TINGE TO WINECOFF BANQUET

Three Prospective Majority Candidates, Guests of Harrell. Make Significant Remarks.

No one expected any political speeches at the banquet and jubilation given at the Hotel Winecoff by Manager Frank Harrell to his friends Monday night. No real political speeches were heard, but the little three-minute talks made by three men who have been mentioned as majority candidates in the next election meant more than usual.

Mayor Woodford, Walter P. Anderson and Forest A. Bell were present. In a short speech Mayor Woodford announced that he would be to the throne of the king at the next election. Introduced by Commissioner J. V. Smith, Colonel Anderson, appointed United States Commissioner to the Mediterranean nations for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, said: "For the past years I have supported the administration of Jim Woodford, and I have been one of the most ardent admirers. Much, indeed, has been done for Atlanta. I am going away on a mission of importance for my country, and when I return I hope to receive the well-earned title of 'Citizen of Atlanta.' I introduce to you Forest A. Bell, the next Mayor of Atlanta."

HUNDRED DIE IN BLIZZARD OVER MIDDLE WEST

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Cleveland has been completely isolated from the outside world for two days, during which time the city has been hit by a blizzard and is now in a blizzard of snow from four to ten feet deep.

Many lives have been lost—how many it is not known—and there are scores of children and others missing. Lack of food has added to the suffering. Meat markets and grocery stores, after exhausting their supplies, have closed their doors. Street car traffic has been practically at a standstill, and telephone and light wires are lying on the ground all over the city, where they were thrown by the terrific storm of Sunday and Sunday night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Dartmouth fellows had so darned rough with Harvard youths last year they have had a fine chance this year what no other Dartmouth team has done—grab the undisputed ball championship of the East. But they would get rough would maul those Cambridge around; they would smear the in the landscape; they would their noses and loosen their teeth now they've got to suffer for.

Until the present season it always scheduled Dartmouth game. And Dartmouth was ried into a team that gave Crimmon squad a noticeable edge. These beatings somewhat peaked Harvard schedule makers at the battle last year the Harvard men decided that for the coming year it had quite enough of Princeton—that Dartmouth was quite the better team in the way of its treatment of its Crimmon boys. This proved a wise move by the men heads.

Harvard beat Princeton on a muddy field. Dartmouth beat Princeton 6 to 4 on an even field. Harvard scored its points through the ability of Brickley. Dartmouth scored its points through the ability of a terrific line plugging that can ball across the Princeton goal.

PREAS THINKS
S. I. A. A. RULING
VERY UNJUST

Jim Was Careful to Protect Himself Against Professionalism; Hard Blow to Tech.

Will Jacket's hard luck story did not come until late, but when one says there is gloom in the Yellow Jacket hive now, you speak a whole month's mind.

Coach Heisman, Assistant Coach Alexander, the team, and all the students are in a very melancholy mood today, Heisman being the most of them all.

This sad feeling is caused all from the loss of one player, and a good one, Jim Preas. At the S. I. A. A. meeting Sunday afternoon Preas was declared ineligible to participate in college athletics on the charge of professionalism.

This was the greatest blow and caused more sorrow than any other incident that has happened to Jim in his student years of existence.

When the news reached Jim he did not believe it, taking it merely as a joke, but when he was convinced that it was true, he did not know what to do with himself. He has been a sad, depressed and humiliated person ever since.

It is a good, clean, clever sportsman. It has been the height of his ambition since early childhood to become a college athlete of the Jim Preas variety, but to think of his being ruled off for professionalism is a blow to him to use all his athletic ambition.

Jim says he is indignant against, and does not understand the condition of the case upon which he is suffering a penalty.

Preas has not, or did not, receive money for athletic service, but received a scholarship from a prep school, and the prep school contends that this scholarship was awarded to him for his athletic service. Preas thought he was getting it for his general excellence in the school he attended just before this one.

That is the ground upon which he was ruled out of S. I. A. A.

Jim very easily could have been a professional, for he has and numerous offers to play football and basketball for money, but he would not accept any offer. He has been quarreling himself against the strict S. I. A. A. rules for several years.

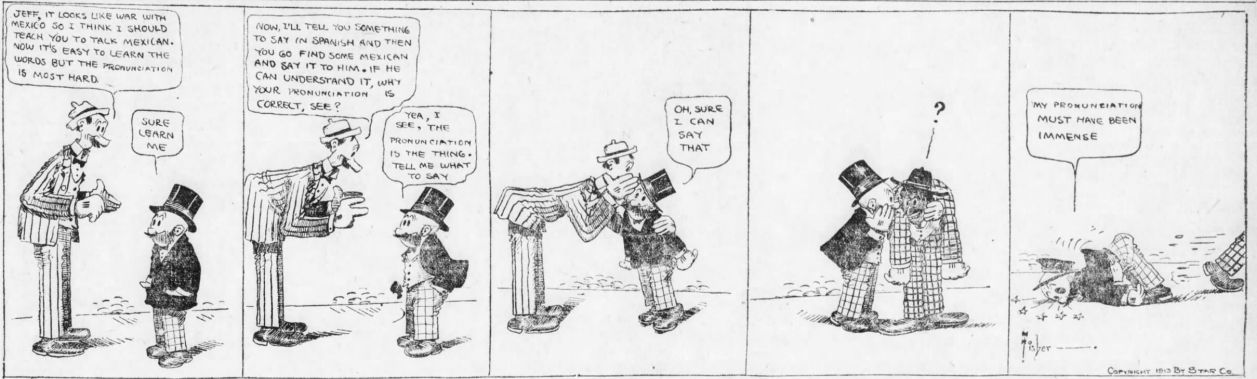

While he was at Riverside he would not even practice with the college football players, saying that some one must say he was playing with the team and getting pay for it.

Jim is very anxious to get back into the game, but his efforts are being made to get him back as the season will be closed before he could begin to get it straightened with the S. I. A. A. representatives.

The loss of Preas is not the only blow the Yellow Jacket suffered. Today he is out with a broken bone in his foot, and can not possibly get on his feet.

"Parlor Baseball" Didn't Work Players Tried Being Polite Once

By O. B. Keeler.

ON a time there were a couple of baseball teams that agreed to cut out all the rough stuff and be polite on the field, even to the umpire, and the umpire, on his side, agreed to be polite and gentlemanly and forbearing in his attitude toward the players.

This is not a fairy story. It is in the solid truth. It was true once—just once.

Joe Kelly tells the story, and as we got it direct from a guy, who had it straight from a publican, who was under the impression that I did know Mr. Kelly, just as Chesterfield is so sure about it.

So far as good—but that was only the first inning.

In the second came the blow-out, and if Mr. Kelly Chesterfield had been there, he undoubtedly would have fled from the scene, uttering with horror, "Parlor game!"

Baltimore had three men on base and Jennings was at bat. Betty made a dash for the plate on what he thought was a sliding ball. The Boston catcher recovered the ball and dove for the sliding Betty, but Jennings correctly wandered into him and spilled him a dozen feet away.

"Out for interference," yelled Hurst. And then the lid came off in places.

"You big Irish nover!" roared Betty, "what for am I out?"

"You nover-topped stiff!" roared the Boston catcher at Jennings. "I ought to knock your back off, and for two cents I'd do it!"

"You're a piece of cheese," returned Jennings, "and this bum umpire is a porch-climber."

"Mr. Kelly cut in."

"I thought this was to be a polite game," he began, and suddenly hit him on the nose with a big mitt, on he couldn't catch.

"I can kick the whole outfit," yelled Hurst, ferociously, "and I'm going to do it if ever did play ball inside a porch-climber."

And in the second half, when Jack

ANOTHER FOOTBALL VICTIM.

DAVENPORT, IOWA, Nov. 12.—Football claimed another victim here in the death of Ed Morrison, captain of the Ambrose College team. He was injured in the opening game of the season, December 27, sustaining a fracture of the right leg. Blood poisoning complicated amputation and pneumonia developed. His death occurred yesterday at Mercy Hospital. He was 21 years old.

What Is To Become of Me?

That's the question that was put squarely up to Evelyn Nesbit Thaw as she faced an ordeal, such as few women survive, at the trial of her husband for the slaying of Stanford White. How she tried to answer the query forms the nucleus for another thrilling installment of the life history of this remarkable woman. It appears in

AUBURN, FOR FIRST TIME, IN LINE FOR TITLE

By Fuzzy Woodruff.

THIS week will tell whether a brand-new champion is to be developed in the South. For if Auburn defeats Vanderbilt in Birmingham at the end of this seven-day period for the first time Auburn will have a chance to write "champion" under the picture of its team.

Southern football is about 20 years old. In that time there have been but three champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Association. The old and blue of Vanderbilt has dominated it frequently. However, more than once before away the general, Georgia in 1934 had the honor in not a few years the title has been included with two and three teams claiming the championship notably in the year of Cumberland and Clemson's victory.

Auburn Never Won Title. And all these years Auburn has been among the big boys, but has never landed the prize. Hisman played the Alabama Polys on the football map way back in 1899. Then he transferred his affections to Clemson and there was a long period of dormancy in the Orange and Blue institution.

Then came the advent of Mike Donahue and year after year Auburn came close. Last year, Donahue played Vanderbilt to a tie and for a little less than a week had a doubtful claim to a championship, only to lose this slight honor by being hopelessly crushed by Georgia.

Things are different this year. McGugin's machine seems about as potent as a punch out. Exchange's Auburn seem as dangerous as a bullet of mercury shot an hour after it's been swallowed.

Have Only Georgia to Beat. If Auburn defeats Vanderbilt Saturday and there is no way of figuring how the Commodores have a chance to beat Georgia to have a bar-lock, no-hill, and a double blue on the scoreboard.

Now, it is not clear that Auburn can beat Georgia. From any angle, other than the few alone, but he has the distinction of getting more offers and alleged offers to the square inch than any pugilist in captivity.

Charlie White does not fight any other than the few alone, but he has the distinction of getting more offers and alleged offers to the square inch than any pugilist in captivity.

Cripples to right of him.

Cripples in front of him.

Cripples with broken head.

Cripples all torn to shreds.

Tossing on pitiful beds—

Scarcely a hundred.

Crippled by faulty aerials.

Mangled by fresh young subs.

Whipped by common dubs.

Made the couch blundered.

Think of the score today.

Really, I hate to say—

Vally a hundred.

Experts say that Jacques Fourrier would make a good white horse, but there is any such thing as a good white horse.

In view of the fact that Branch Ricker is a member of the Y. M. C. A., we presume that the Browns will indulge in the Game of Authors next year instead of the P. G.

"Hugh Jennings" said the baseball "will run the Broadway team".

And then he looked another pill and then he looked another dream.

Possibly Charlie Ebbets contemplates hiring a new manager because he craves something new to dedicate next spring.

The Ginks are lathered by sand in their games out West, but there wasn't much of it in evidence when they played in the World's Series.

Hendie Zim possesses more than his proper modicum of ivory, but it is hard to believe that he has signed with the Federal League.

Once in a while our baseball scribbles show flashes of startling originality. This year they have picked Governor Tener instead of Joe O'Brien for Tom Lynch's job.

Frank Glick has retired again, but he did not emerge from the said retirement until Stringer Lewis has attained sufficient adventure to make him a drawing man.

Bob Helges has just returned from a vacation in Texas, whereas his ball team has been enjoying a vacation in St. Louis for 16, these many years.

What has become of the six-fingered man who called it "roll" instead of "pocket billiards"?

Charlie White does not fight any other than the few alone, but he has the distinction of getting more offers and alleged offers to the square inch than any pugilist in captivity.

Jennings Will Lead Tigers Again in 1914

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Hughie Jennings, the popular leader of the Detroit Tigers, said today that he was to become manager of the Dodgers, succeeding "Red" Huggins. Jennings said that the contract with the Detroit Club covers the season of 1914, and that he can not consider any other proposition from another club during the life of his contract.

After All, Why Not Put a Number on a Player?

Thereby We Can Give a Sturdy Warrior Credit for a Touchdown, Instead of Robbing Him of Glory.

YOU know—or perhaps you do not know, and it is well in either case—that the stands at a football game do not afford the spectators a too good a view of the proceedings on the gridiron. When the warriors are endeavoring to tear each other into smithereens right in front of you, then you can see it all with pleasure. But when war is being waged on the other side of the pasture you are in possession of the oval.

The press box at Grant Field, where the game in spite of the precautions taken by the college authorities against discovery, it seems to us, this public should accept it as it finds it.

MOREOVER, we believe that the football game should be a public spectacle, not a private one. It should be a game for the people, not a game for the press.

Of course it can be argued that a person attempting to write about a football game should know the players, and no doubt many do know them. If, by right, their natural instinct is to write about the game, they should be allowed to do so. But if it is Woodruff's own fault that it wasn't Woodruff's own fault, why should we blame him for it?

But what of the fellow who stands so low in the social scale that he can never hope for personal acquaintance with these footballers, who can never hope to move in the same set with them—that of him? What if the spectators who may unconsciously find themselves ignorant of the identity of the young men on the gridiron, they must not be told of it upon popular rumor for their information, that's what. There is no other way.

Not that we care. We but voice a common complaint. Personally we are not concerned one way or the other. It seems to us that football has done its level best to elude the public by hiding out at Grant Field, Athens, Auburn and Nashville, and if the

Mercer Sub-Varsity Beaten by Gordon

BARNESVILLE, GA., Nov. 11.—Gordon walked away with the Mercer sub-variety by a score of 28 to 0. At no stage of the game did the victors have a chance to win. Gordon scored three touchdowns in the first quarter, two in the third and one in the fourth. Being forward in the game, the style of play used by Gordon, Mercer's score was a complete surprise. Practically every man on the Gordon team started.

Bob Moha Suspended

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Nov. 11.—Bob Moha has been suspended by the boxing commission until January 1 because he signed fights for the same day. Moha himself signed to meet Gus Christie on November 24 before the Riverside Club. Shortly afterwards the South Side Athletic Club announced that Moha's manager had already signed him to fight on the same day. This before that organization. Moha denied three managers who authorized to sign him.

RED AND BLACK WORKS BEHIND CLOSED GATES

ATHENS, GA., Nov. 11.—Martial law was declared by Gov. C. B. Darden for the vicinity of Stanford Field when the eleven that will battle Tech Saturday reported for duty yesterday afternoon and for the remainder of the week the high sheriff with a search warrant could gain admittance to the confines of Stanford Field. The slogan at Georgia now is, "On to Tech," and the gate now is closed. The gate now is closed. The gate now is closed.

Zimmerman Ousted From Players' Union For Not Paying Dues

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Heinie Zimmerman, third baseman of the Chicago Cubs and one of the leading batsmen of the National League, has been expelled by the Players' Fraternity. Heinie refused to pay his dues for one thing, and he is also accused of working against the interests of the players.

Ed Reulbach, who represented the players in the Chicago club, last summer asked Zimmerman for his dues

Murphy promptly wrote a note to Reulbach in which he intimated that it would be just as well if the players paid more attention to his work as a pitcher and less to the Players' Fraternity. Shortly after this Reulbach was traded to the Brooklyn club.

Reulbach reported the matter to the Fraternity. Another demand was made on Zimmermann for his dues.

VANDY FACES HARD TASK IN AUBURN SQUAD

Coach McGugin Surprised at Orange and Blue's Great Showing Against Tech Eleven.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 12.—Coach McGugin received two almost identical and encouraging reports from his Auburn squad Saturday afternoon. The first was the narrow margin by which the Commodore down won from Tennessee, and the second was the training given Georgia Tech by Auburn, an outright football win by the Commodore even though the Auburn team had been beaten by the Orange and Blue team.

Against Tennessee the Commodore displayed a pitiful lack of rushing ability and although several times were within striking distance of the Volunteers' goal line, they were unable to score. McGugin, formerly a great coach at Vanderbilt, who is leaving McGugin to the Vanderbilt coaching staff, said that the Commodore's rushing game was a disgrace. He said that the Commodore's rushing game was a disgrace. He said that the Commodore's rushing game was a disgrace.
